TAXES AND ASSESSMENTS.

Report of the Commissioners of the Department of Taxes and Assessments.

DEPARTMENT OF TAXES AND ASSESSMENTS, LEW YORK, May 1, 1871. This department was reorganized in May, 1869, by the appointment of the present Board of Comoners, under cuapter 898 of the Laws of 1869. It is charged with the whole subject of the assessment for purposes of taxation of all the real and peronal property in the county, and is thus vested with powers second only to the highest judicial functions tercised by civinged governments. Non-partizan In its organization, its duties have been discharged with such impartiality that the decisions of the Seard have been appeared from in only two instances. In one of these the decision of the Soard, which was in strict compilance with specific instructions issued by the Compiroller of the State, was overnied by the Subreme Court; and in the place the decision of the same tribunal was adverse

6. All field-books, maps and other records, when cepted.

6. All field-books, maps and other records, when not in actual use in the several districts, must be deposited with the jamor at the office, and from the list of September to the list of Jamuary must be so deposited durin outsiness hours each Saturday.

7. It is especially enjoined unit a prompt attention be paid, acriva and controlus manner exhibited, and respectful language employed to all parties presenting them elves on public business.

The city has been divided mio assessment districts of convenent size, and a deputy tax commissioner and diera assigned to each. Under the direction of the board and in compliance with section 7, of chapter 3-2 of the Laws of 1859, these deputies and ciera commen e their field duties on the first Monday of September, and proceed to assess the real estate in the respective districts for the ensuing calentar year, by personally examining byery house, bilandar, for, pier or other assessable property, giving the dimensions street, and ward numbers of every lot, and the untensions and number of stories, as well as the material of every building, together what the names of the owner or pocupant, if abown, and such other information as the commissioners may from time to time grequire. They note care tilly all improvements made during the year, new edifices erected, and the probable cost; all changes which may either increase or diminish rints or viatues, and, as far as possible, acquain, themselves with the prices demanded for such real property as may be in the market. They are asso turnished with a list of sales and prices of property in their respective districts. By these and other means a just and equal valuation is sought to be placed upon the entire taxable real estate of the county.

By these and other heans a just and equal valuation is sought to be placed upon the entire taxable real estate of the county.

These assessments, when completed, are copied in detail from the nead books or biotiers into record books and on the arst wonday of January are open to the public for hispeliton, and thus remain open intil the 3th of April inclusive. The deputies and plerks are in daily attendance at their desks during this period, to give information, receive applications and note changes of ownership. The applications and note changes of ownership. The applications and note changes of ownership. The applications for reductions in assessments pass to the office of the secretary, where they are recorded, and then into the hands of an experienced appraiser assigned 5, that duty, who examines critically each application, visiting the property in necessary, and reports his writing to the Commissioners. When the books are closed the Boart taxe up these applications and consider them carefully, duty weighing the reasons alleged by the applicant in behalf of his claim, and, upon making their decision, the cooks are corrected in conformity thereto.

After this revision and correction the books are again fairly copied in detail, and on the first Monday in July are delivered to the Board of supervisors for the extension of the tax.

the maps constantly with them in their field work, and at the same time taxpayers needed them to identify their property and verify their tax oills. The edical scarchers and city assessors and other departments had also frequent need of them, and all these parties were subjected to great delays and inconvenience, white one was compelled in turn to give place to the other under the direction of this Board.

and those parties were subjected to great delays and inconvenience, while one was compelled in turn to give place to the other under the direction of this Board.

The perit to various interests which might arise from the destruction or matiliation of any of these maps has been a source of constant anxiety.

In 1865 provision was made by the Legis ature for multiplying these maps, and that work is in such a state of forwardness that in a lew weeks there will be at least three official-copies of all that portion of the city below Fourteenth street. The additional about it correcting these several copies will be considerable, but that Is not to be counted in comparison with the advantages. Under the act of 1869 new maps from actual survey have been made of a large part of the fwelfth ward. The effect has been altesty to place upon the rolls some 1,500 lots for the purpose of assessment.

MILITARY EXEMPTIONS.

A very loose practice formerly prevailed in regard to military exemptions, which was fraught with great nability and tempration to fraud. No exemption is now showed unless upon the production of the cerimicate required by law, upon which a proper endorsement is made, and the whole transaction recorded in a book kebt for that purpose.

FREYING UNON TAXIAYERS.

There are mady men who are so inexcusably careless and indirerent as to allow themselves to be imposed upon in the most unskilini way. It has long been the practice of a class, who by their persistance and success have almost clevated their calling to a profession, to prey upon taxpayers in various ways, by assuming to exercise powers vested in this department. Two or three methods of operations will sindle for examples.—For instance, blank copies of bottees of personal assessment are surreptionally procured or instance, thank copies of bottees of personal assessment are surreptionally procured or instance of the surreptional assessment are surreptionally procured or instance of the surreptional surreptions as a sessed at $1.0,000. GENERAL REMARKS.

Since a personal tax was first imposed by the Athenian legislator, nearly 2,500 years ago, a good many acute minds have devoted themselves, with more or less assiduity, to the solution of the problem how new processes. tem how not to pay it.

The evasions have always been numerous and in-

The evasions have always been numerous and ingenious, but the precipitation upon the country, and especially upon this financial centre, within a short time, of hundreds of millions of United States bonds, bearing a high rate of interest and exempt from (axation, while during the same period local taxation was largely increased by the very causes which required the issue of the non-taxable bonds, at once provided the means and sharpened the wits of those who have an ingrained aversion to paying taxes. With the exception of the special act in reference to the taxation of bairs passed in 1866, it is not a little singular that there has been no legislation to meet the changed condition and relation of things.

not a little singular that there has been no legislation to meet the changed condition and relation of things.

This Board no not deem is within their prevince to discuss at large the principles which should govern the taxailon of personal property. But they did suggest that a slight amendment to an existing law would re der it more difficult for the ingenious to clude just taxation, while it would do sometaing to restore the comparative equilibrium which existed before the war, and thus it effect partially conform to Adam Smith's first accepted maxim in regard to taxation, that the subjects of every state ought to contribute towards the support of the government as hearty as possible in proportion to their respective bilities."

The section of the old law so amended was introduced into the Legislature. It did not change the words of one-centh of the original law. It did not refer to or affect the assessment of real estate. Yet, strangely enough, the old and unchanged portion of the law was selected as the theme for the most violent denunciation. It was novel. It was affections, it was unprecedented. The amendments seeined to estape notice, yet so great was the change that it was thought better to allow the amendment of drop than to waste time in proving to the incredulous that two and two make four.

The assessment upon real estate, while it in no case exceeds the "just and true value of the property," no matter how adverse and unavorable encumbances may be under which it is put upon the market, is essentially higher than the assessment praced upon property in every other portion of the State, with the possible exception of Brooklyn. This Fourth cannot conscientiously follow the enterior which prevents estate where. Yet the effect of the pre-ent system is to throw upon the evil practice while prevails estavenere. Yet the effect of the pre-ent system is to throw upon the city of New York an undue share of the State Board of Equalization; and the fact of the interful.

sessment of the shareholders of banks involves an amount of ciercal labor which could be most usefully employed, if reheved, as it might be by an amended law. The right of the Legislature to enact a law by which shares or stock may be assessed in bulk against the bank, instead of assessing them in cital, as now, to the several shareholders, according to the number held by each, seems to be authoritatively settled by an adjudication of the supreme Court of the United States in the case of National Bank against the Common wealth of Kentucky (9) wallace U. S. Reports, p. 353).

In the oriel statements herein given of the powers and duties of this Board it will be seen that the Commissioners come more closely in contact with the great body of taxpayers than does any other department. The nature of the duties requires the exercise of delicacy, judgment and firmness. The imposition of any ourlea, however light and however equitably distributed, is, as most men are constituted, a source of irritation and annoyance. Yet it is satisfactory to know that the general course of the Board has met with the approval of the public, and that in the few instances where complaints have been made of the final action of the Commissioners upon the applications, the Board consideration in the final action of the Commissioners upon the applications, the Board considering the public inspection, and at the end of that period so much of the work is open to public inspection, and at the end of that period so much of the work as has not been objected to has, in effect and in fact, been ratified and confirmed by the public.

At the date of this report it is impracticable to state the results of the assessments for 1874, massimuch as the books were not closed until the 30th of April, and several nundred applications for revision make during the last week yet remain to be considered by the Board. This duty is rendered more onerous for the present year by the fact that the number of names upon the personal rolls has been materially increased.

The raspberry crop is much surer in a dry season than strawberries, and this year will be very abundant.

Cherries are generally a light crop in and around Rochester, though some trees are quite foll, and there will probably be enough for a moderate consumption.

there will probably be enough for a moderate consumption.

Blackoerries have never been so plenty and cheap in this market as they will be this year. The tender varieties, such as the Lawton, were not injured by the winter, and there are many plantations of Killatiny and carly Wilson which are never injured by the severest cold weather.

There will be very few apples. The abundant blooming on some orchards has been followed by no fruit, and the crop will be very light. The May rains washed the policn of the blows at the time the fruit should set. Some varieties of pears were injured in the same way, while others have set very abundantly. The pear crop generally promises well.

We do not hear of any peaches. The trees west of the river which blossomed partially seem to have set little or no fruit.

Quinces have set the heaviest crop we have ever seen, and quinces and pears will parily take the place of our missing apple and peach crops.
